

Specialist Nurse Credentialing Program Qualification Framework

Credentialing is a voluntary professional recognition scheme which recognises nurses practicing in a speciality area. Holding the appropriate qualification is an essential requirement when applying for a Specialty Nurse Credential. Credentialing is in addition to the legislated registration system which is the responsibility of the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia (NMBA).

This framework outlines the minimum qualification requirements for a nurse to be eligible to apply for credentialing with the relevant speciality college. Credentialing also requires that applicants demonstrate additional criteria such as current registration to practice, minimum periods of relevant practice, continuing education and practice development. The additional criteria are outlined in the Specialist Nurse Credentialing Program Application Kit and Instructions.

The qualifications identified in this framework represent the consensus position of the identified nursing colleges. Individual specialist organisations and colleges reserve the right to establish, or maintain educational qualification criteria above the minimum outlined within this framework, and may choose not to accept some pathways available through the framework. The specialist organisations and colleges adopting this framework are:

- ACCYPN — Australian College of Children and Young Peoples Nurses
- CNSA — Cancer Nurses Society Australia
- ACMHN — Australian College of Mental Health Nurses
- CENA — College of Emergency Nurses Australasia
- PCNA — Palliative Care Nurses Australia

All organisations have agreed that this framework be reviewed within three years of commencement. There are a number of components that have been identified as transitional provisions. The ongoing need for these components to be included in the framework will be considered at this review. The review will also be an opportunity for each specialist organisation or college to review which pathways they will continue accept.

Qualification Criterion

In order for an applicant to be eligible to apply for specialist nurse credentialing, they must demonstrate at least 100 points of relevant education in their specialty area of nursing practice. The Qualification Criterion recognises that there have been different pathways over the years by which a registered nurse can undertake educational preparation for specialist nursing practice. There are three pathways included in this framework and each speciality organisation / College will nominate the pathways that they will accept.

This framework will be incorporated into the online credentialing portal so that instructions for applicants are tailored to their speciality.

Glossary

The following notes are to be read in conjunction with, and form part of the framework.

Qualification: Refers to qualifications as recognised through the Australian Qualification Framework (www.aqf.edu.au).

Specialty Nursing: Refers to a program of study that is directly relevant to the specialty area of nursing practice in which the applicant is seeking to be credentialed. It does not include a program of study that is restricted to a sub-specialty focus.

Specialty Nursing Qualification Refers to a qualification obtained through a program of study that is directly relevant to the specialty area of nursing practice in which the applicant is seeking to be credentialed. It does not include a program of study that is restricted to a sub-specialty focus. It results in a specialty nursing qualification and is delivered by a nursing and midwifery school / faculty or a nursing and midwifery organisation and is clearly described on the testamur as being in the specialty nursing area of practice.

Other Nursing: Refers to a program of study that is directly relevant to nursing and midwifery practice, but does not fit within the definition of Specialty Nursing.

Other Nursing Qualification: Refers to a qualification obtained through a program of study that is directly relevant to nursing and midwifery but does not fit within the definition of Specialty Nursing Qualification. The course must be a program of study that results in an identified nursing qualification and/or is delivered by a nursing and midwifery school / faculty or a nursing and midwifery organisation.

Appendix 1: Examples demonstrating how the Qualification Framework is applied.

Pathway 1

- Jane holds a Masters of Mental Health Nursing attained at an Australian University. According to Pathway 1, Jane can claim 100 points for her qualification and meets the Qualification Criterion for the Specialist Nurse Credentialing Program.
- Bill holds a Graduate Certificate in Mental Health Nursing attained at an Australian University. Mental Health Nursing has not been nominated as a specialty accepting a Graduate Certificate so he does not meet the Qualification Criterion through Pathway 1.

Pathway 2

- Anne is applying for a Mental Health Nurse Credential. She holds a Masters in Nursing Practice from an Australian University, for which she can claim 75 points. She has also completed a multidisciplinary Graduate Certificate in Mental Health (Child and Adolescent) from an Australian University, for which she can claim 50 points. Anne has a total of 125 points under Pathway 2 and meets the qualification criterion.
- Doug is applying to be credentialed as a Palliative Care Nurse. He has completed the following courses:
 - a Graduate Certificate in Community Nursing from an Australian University for which he can claim 50 points (as a Graduate Certificate in the area of II: Other Nursing in Table 2).
 - a Specialist Certificate in Palliative Care conducted by the Centre for Palliative Care (Vic). PCNA has nominated this as an “Education course nominated by the specialty college” and allocated it 25 points under column III in Table 2.
 - Palliative care nursing in various contexts, a short course conducted by Queensland University of Technology. PCNA has nominated this as an “Education course nominated by the specialty college” and allocated it 25 points under column I in Table 2.

Under Pathway 2 Doug has achieved the 100 points required, through a combination of 50 points for the Graduate Certificate and a further 50 points under “Education course nominated by the specialty college”. Doug meets the requirements of the qualification criterion using Pathway 2.

Pathway 3

- Clare is applying to be credentialed as an Emergency Nurse. Clare completed a Post Basic Certificate in Emergency/Trauma Nursing at the Alfred Hospital Melbourne. This course has been recognised by CENA under Pathway 3A. Clare meets the qualification criteria under the transition arrangement approved by CENA.

- Elizabeth has completed a post basic Hospital Certificate in Child Health Nursing. Following completion of this certificate Elizabeth was registered as a Child Health Nurse in Victoria by the Nurses Board of Victoria. Elizabeth can claim 100 points and meets the requirements of the qualification criterion using Pathway 3B.
- Frank completed a pre-registration hospital certificate in mental health nursing. As a result of this certificate, he was registered as a mental health nurse in Queensland by the Queensland Nursing Council. Frank can claim 100 points and meets the requirements of the qualification criterion using Pathway 3B.
